PUBLISHER'S PREFACE

The Ministry

The Ministry of the Colonies of the Netherlands was set up by royal decree in 1814 after French domination of the country under Napoleon had ended. It continued to exist until 1959 and saw to all colonial affairs for the Dutch East Indies (Indonesia) and Dutch West Indies, including the mainland South American colony of Surinam and the Caribbean islands of Aruba, Bonaire, Curaçao, Saba, St. Eustatius and St. Martin. The West African "coast of Guinea" (present-day Ghana) was also a Dutch colony until it was ceded to Great Britain in 1872. It further was charged with maintaining contacts with the authorities of the colonies of other countries, such as Great Britain and with the governments of China and Japan. Its archives are kept in the National Archives of the Netherlands in the Hague (the former General State Archives) and are used extensively by historians and other scholars of Indonesia, the Caribbean and European colonialism.

Finding aids

The archives are ordered chronologically and are accessible through a series of indexes, calendars and registers compiled by the civil servants of the Ministry. These essential finding aids are the key to locating specific documents in the vast series of verbalen (see below) that comprise these archives. The use of these finding aids is explained below in Dutch and English.

Among the many subjects that can be traced using the indexes are:

- colonial government in general
- government of particular regions and places
- relations with indigenous authorities
- agriculture, mining and industry
- trade and relations with other powers
- finance, military matters, culture and religion
- political movements and unrest

Background: Dutch colonialism in East and West, 1814-1960

The East

From 1816 onwards when the Dutch regained the East Indies from the British after the Napoleonic wars, they began to reassert and expand their control. A new East Indian army (the KNIL), was set up and the exploitation of the colony for the benefit of the metropole began in earnest. By the 1820s social unrest among the Indonesian population was widespread. The rebellion that broke out on Java in 1825, under the leadership of Diepo Negoro, took five years to defeat and cost the lives of an estimated 200,000 people.

The Cultuurstelsel

By the late 1820s colonial finances had been sapped and the Dutch were eager to make the colony a paying proposition. The authoritarian philanthropist and military officer Johannes van den Bosch launched his "Cultuurstelsel" initiative at this time and was appointed governor general by King William I to install it. This system amounted to forcing the Indonesians to cultivate various cash crops to be paid to the colonial government, which would then sell them on the world market through the Dutch Trading Company (Nederlandsch handelmaatschappij) set up in 1824 under royal patronage. By 1840 the first famines provoked by increased exploitation were reported. By mid-century the system had brought great wealth to the colonial power, but was coming under more and more criticism both in Indonesia and the Netherlands. The constitutional reforms in the Netherlands in 1848 brought a measure of parliamentary control over colonial affairs and partial abolition of the Cultuurstelsel in the 1850s. During the second half of the nineteenth century, however, the colony was opened to economic development by European capital.

Nationalism, war and decolonization

By the early twentieth century the Dutch had brought all the remaining areas of the archipelago, including Aceh on Sumatra, Bali, South Celebes and Lombok under colonial control with a series of military expeditions. At this time the so-called ethical policy was introduced to promote the interests of the Indonesian population through education. Although it only benefited a small group, increased education helped the incipient nationalist movement to gain ground. An Islamic mass movement was launched in 1912; the Indonesian Communist Party was founded in 1920; and in 1927 Sukarno's PNI saw the light of day. The Dutch reacted to these developments with repression, opening an internment camp for radicals and nationalists at Boven-Digul in New Guinea. During the Japanese occupation (1942-1945), the nationalists were freed and encouraged, but the Indonesian population was harshly exploited. At war's end in August 1945, Sukarno and Hatta proclaimed the Republic of Indonesia. The Dutch attempted to regain control of the colony by military means and by political maneuvering designed to divide the Indonesians. Increasing international pressure, especially from the United States, forced the Dutch to negotiate at a Round Table Conference that led to the transfer of sovereignty to the Republic in December 1949.

The West

In the west a plantation economy using slave labor, which was not to be abolished until 1863, continued to characterize the Dutch colonies after their return by the British. But since the British had abolished the slave trade in 1806, it was not possible to replenish the supply of slaves and the West Indies possessions entered into decline, despite the efforts of King William I to make them a commercial pivot between Europe and America. With the abolition of slavery, many former slaves refused to work on the plantations and a system of contract labor had to be introduced whereby thousands of migrant workers from British India and Java were imported to Surinam, thus creating a much more heterogeneous society there. The discovery of bauxite in Surinam in 1922 led to the growth of a mining industry, while the establishment of a major oil refinery on Curaçao by Royal Dutch Shell prompted by the opening of the Panama canal (1914) had a great influence in the islands. After the Second World War, when allied troops were stationed in the West Indies, the growing desire for more autonomy led to two Round Table Conferences in 1948 and a new statute in 1954 that ushered in home rule. Surinam became independent in 1975, but the Antilles are still part of the Kingdom of the Netherlands.

Note on the microfiches

The microfiches were made by Moran Micropublications from masters supplied by the National Archives. The microfiches are numbered consecutively by inventory number. Reproduced in this micropublication are inventory numbers 753-837: "Agenda en klapper op het geheim- en kabinetsarchief van het Ministerie van Koloniën en opvolgers, 1901-1958". The fiche headers give the inventory number contained on that fiche. They mistakenly read, however, "Serie A 1900-1962", instead of "1901-1958". For a further breakdown of the contents of the microfiches see the Concordance below (pages 10 ff.).

TOEGANG TOT HET GEHEIME/KABINETSARCHIEF VAN HET MINISTERIE VAN KOLONIËN, 1901-1958

Het geheime/ kabinetsarchief van het ministerie van Koloniën over de aangegeven periode is, evenals het openbare gedeelte, geordend volgens het zogenaamde verbaalstelsel. Een verbaal (meervoud: verbalen) is een oude vakterm voor een besluit, met de daarbij behorende voorstukken. De minuut van zo'n besluit werd geschreven op een dubbel gevouwen blad papier. De voorstukken, die tot het besluit aanleiding hadden geleid, werden in het gevouwen blad gevoegd. Ieder openbaar verbaal kreeg, behalve een datum, een nummercombinatie (voorbeeld: verbaal 19 mei 1924-33), ieder geheim verbaal een letter-nummercombinatie (voorbeeld : verbaal 5 februari 1924- M¹). De verbalen vormen in het archief een chronologische serie. Naast de aanduiding voor verbaal (V) komen we in de agenda's de termen "geëxhibeerd" en "exhibitum" (meervoud: exhibita) tegen. Deze, eveneens oude vakterm, werd op een ontvangen stuk gestempeld. In de stempel staat de datum van ontvangst, gevolgd door een nummercombinatie (openbaar exhibitum) of een letter-nummercombinatie (geheim exhibitum), zoals bij de verbalen. Exhibita die deel uitmaakten van het besluitvormingsproces werden opgeborgen in het desbetreffende verbaal; exhibita die voor kennisgeving werden aangenomen werden of vóór in de dagbundel van verbalen opgeborgen of vormen een aparte serie. Zie voor de geheime serie exhibita de toegangen 2.10.36.051 en 2.10.36.052.

Een serie agenda's vormt de toegang op het geheime /kabinetsarchief. Achter de volgnummers wordt de herkomst en de datum van het ingekomen stuk vermeld. In de rubriek "geëxhibeerd" wordt de ontvangstdatum genoteerd. Vervolgens wordt de inhoud kort omschreven. Deze gegevens staan op de linkerbladzijden van de agenda. De rechterbladzijden vermelden gegevens over de beschikking: in de rubriek "kommissoriaal" staat vermeld welke afdeling van het ministerie het ingekomen stuk behandeld heeft. Onder "datum, letter" staan datum, nummer of letter van het verbaal. Ook van de beschikking wordt de inhoud kort vermeld. In de kolom "aantekeningen" wordt waar nodig verwezen naar andere agendanummers.

Iedere agenda bevat voorin een klapper. Hierin zijn de ingekomen stukken en de beschikkingen geklapperd op naam of trefwoord. De klappers zijn alfabetisch, maar niet lexicografisch. Achter de trefwoorden staan de verwijzingen naar de volgnummers in de agenda.

Tussen de klapper en de agenda bevindt zich een lijst geheime verbalen. De lijst is geordend op datum en letter van de beschikkingen, en verwijst onder welk volgnummer de verbalen in de agenda kunnen worden gevonden. Deze lijst kan alleen worden gebruikt als datum en letter van de beschikking bekend zijn.

HOW TO USE THIS MICROFICHE COLLECTION

The filing system of the public archives

Both the public and the secret archives of the Ministry of the Colonies in the period concerned are arranged according to the so-called Verbaalstelsel. A verbaal (pl.: verbalen) is an old professional term for a decision, together with the relevant antecedent documents. The original (minuut) of the decision was written on a double sheet of paper, folded in two to form a wrapper. The antecedent documents leading to the decision were kept in this folder. Every public verbaal was both dated and given a number (for example, verbaal (abbreviated V.) 19 mei 1924-33). The secret verbalen received in addition to a date, a letter-number combination, for example 5 februari 1924-M¹. The verbalen form a chronological series in the archives.

In addition to the designation (V) for verbaal, we also encounter the old professional terms "geëxhibeerd" and "exhibitum" (pl.: exhibita) in the indexes of the Ministry. These terms were stamped on documents received. In an open space in the stamp were noted the date of receipt followed by a number combination (public exhibitum) or letter-number combination (secret exhibitum), as with the verbalen. Exhibita that had to do with the decision-making process were kept in the relevant verbaal. Exhibita sent simply for notification were kept either in the beginning of the verbaal of that day or in a separate series. For the series of secret exhibita, see the finding aids (toegangen) 2.10.36.051 and 2.10.36.052 in the reading room of the National Archives.

Access to the Secret and Cabinet archives of the Ministry in this period is provided by a series of "calendars" (agenda's in Dutch), a systematic listing of incoming mail. Each document was given a consecutive number (agenda- or volgnummer) after which the provenance and the date of the document were recorded. Under the heading "geëxhibeerd" the date of receipt is given. Then follows a short description of the content. This data can be found on the left-hand side of the agenda. On the right-hand side details of the disposition (beschikking) given the document can be found. Under the heading "kommissoriaal" the department of the Ministry that handled the document is noted. Under "datum, letter" the date and number or letter of the verbaal are given. There is also a short description of the action taken. Finally, the column "aantekeningen" is reserved for references to other relevant agendanummers, if any.

Every agenda opens with a klapper, which is an alphabetical, but not lexicographical index of names and key words. After the words are references to the relevant volgnummers in de agenda.

Between the klapper and the agenda is a list of secret verbalen (lijst geheime verbalen). This list is ordered by date and letter of the disposition and lists the volgnummer under which the verbalen can be found in the agenda. This list can only be used if the date and letter of the decision are known. In the column "nummer voor" the secret "verbalen" sent to the Governor/Governor-General of the three colonies (The East Indies, Surinam and the Antilles) are numbered consecutively per subcolumn. For 1901, for example, we see that 107 verbalen were meant for the East Indies, 30 for Surinam and 17 for the Antilles. Many secret verbalen are not numbered. These were simply filed and can be found in the secret "exhibita" for that day.

Each year from 1901 until 1938 has been assigned its own inventory number. Starting with 1939, but excluding the war years 1940-1945, two or more inventory numbers have been assigned to each year. A glance at the concordance that follows below will make this clear. The inventory numbers (but not the years) are visible in the microfiche headers. Within each inventory number the microfiches are numbered consecutively from 1 with a plus sign (+) following to the last fiche in the inventory number, which is always designated by a – (minus sign). Thus inventory number 753 (1901) consists of 9 microfiches from 1+ to 9-.
